

Databases

Law Science

EUR-Lex – Access to EU law

Provides access to European Union legislation. Display is possible in various European languages.

Research

European Judicial Network in Civil and Commercial Matters

The website is managed by the European Commission and updated in close cooperation with the Member States of the European Union. You will find a lot of information about the Member States, Community law, international law and various civil and commercial law topics.

Research

Find Legal Resources

Includes an annotated English-language link list of legal and government information offerings on the Internet, compiled by the Law Library of Congress.

Research

Guide to Foreign and International Legal Databases

The English-language guide offers annotated link lists to relevant legal information, compiled by the New York University Law Library.

Research

International Labour Organization (ILO)

The main objective of the ILO is to improve working conditions and living standards in the world. It issues several useful publications and provides access to various databases. Most of the services are free of charge. Available languages are English, French and Spanish.

Research

Lawlinks

Provides an annotated English language link list to websites with legal content. The author is the University of Kent at Canterbury.

Research

SRH Berlin University of Applied Sciences

Legislationline

The database contains international norms and standards related to specific human rights areas. In addition, national laws and other important documents relating to these areas are listed.

Research

Virtuelle Fachbibliothek Recht (ViFa Recht)

Instrument for online legal research. It offers a location-independent and uncomplicated access to jurisprudential information on the Internet.

Research